DALLAS, TX (May 19, 2026) - The Perot Museum of Nature and Science is kicking off the summer soccer season with one of its largest and most interactive events yet as tickets officially go on sale this week for Thursdays on Tap: Soccer Edition, taking place July 9 from 3-9 pm for all ages.

Inspired by the growing global excitement around soccer and Dallas's place on the international stage, the special edition of the Museum's popular series will transform the Perot Museum into a family-friendly soccer festival featuring hands-on STEM activities, outdoor experiences, food, music, and interactive entertainment for fans of all ages. Thursdays on Tap: Soccer Edition is also a part of Dallas Arts District Fest, a series of public events to showcase the Dallas Arts District and the City's cultural scene during World Cup.

The expanded event footprint - activating both inside and outside Museum walls - is designed for soccer fans, families, and visitors to gather to celebrate the science behind the sport and the city's role in the worldwide soccer spotlight.

"As all eyes turn toward Dallas and the global excitement surrounding soccer, we're thrilled to create an experience that brings together science, culture, community, and play in a truly unforgettable way," said Dr. Linda Silver, Eugene McDermott Chief Executive Officer, Perot Museum. "Thursdays on Tap: Soccer Edition will give families and fans an opportunity to celebrate the energy of the sport while exploring hands-on experiences that inspire curiosity and connection."

Throughout the event, visitors will enjoy Museum access alongside soccer-themed programming including robot soccer challenges, stadium design experiences, interactive labs, photo booths, music, and outdoor activities.

Food trucks onsite will include Mi Cocina, Yummy Pizza, Egg Stand, and Mama Lama, alongside global-inspired offerings from countries playing in the World Cup from Wolfgang Puck Catering. Beverages from Community Beer Co. will also be available, including a special World Cup-themed brew created for the event.
